"Manners maketh Man"

We were delighted to acquire twenty tables this week, enabling us to seat the children appropriately for lunch and alleviate pressure during boarder homework periods. This now allows us to prioritize table manners and etiquette, an area requiring development for many of our students.

As the adage states, "Manners maketh man!" This emphasizes the fundamental importance of politeness, good manners, and civility in shaping individuals, which aligns perfectly with our core values.

It has been surprising to observe how many children arrive at the tea table at break and simply extend their hand without greeting the server, requesting politely, or expressing gratitude. When arriving at school, getting out the car without saying, "Goodbye and thank you!" This behaviour reflects a sense of entitlement, prioritising individual needs over those of others. While we actively enforce these fundamental courtesies, your support is crucial in achieving lasting success.

In today's world, where standing out requires deliberate effort, good manners offer a unique and effective means to distinguish oneself. Just as a single drop of water can, over time, erode concrete, consistently practicing simple courtesies like "Good morning," "Please," and "Thank you" can have a profound impact. Let us, together, cultivate these positive behaviours in the Lendy children, allowing them to shine with grace and respect.
