Indifference

Watching rugby on the weekend, I noticed the litter lying everywhere and the way people just ignored it; stepped over it; kicked it and pretended it was not there. I was so proud of some of our Grade 7's who, when walking past, cleaned it up. It wasn't their school, but they knew what was right. That is a Lendy Park Child. It made me wonder though, where that indifference on the part of all those people who were present came from; the willingness to just accept things the way they are. Why did no one else bother to pick it up?

Lendy Park shone brightly that day. And this is not the only time that it has happened; I've seen our children picking up litter outside school and at other fixtures at other schools. We need to teach our children that they CAN make a difference to Zimbabwe if they (and we) care enough, starting with one piece of litter at a time. Don't let our hearts grow cold.
